Gabriel Segovia focuses his practice on commercial litigation and dispute resolution, representing landowners, investors, lenders, and business owners in matters involving commercial leases, construction projects, real estate development, loan agreements, and other business disputes in Texas state and federal courts. He guides clients through all phases of litigation, including appeals, and develops strategies aligned with their business objectives.

Before entering private practice, Gabriel gained insight into the judicial process through several clerkships and internships. He served as the inaugural law clerk for Chief Justice Scott Brister of the Texas Fifteenth Court of Appeals, which has statewide jurisdiction over civil cases involving the state and appeals from the Texas Business Court. During law school, he also interned for Justice Debra Lehrmann of the Supreme Court of Texas and Justice Ken Wise of the Fourteenth Court of Appeals, where he analyzed legal issues and assisted in drafting opinions.

Gabriel graduated magna cum laude and is a member of the Order of Lytae. In law school, he served as an Articles Editor for the South Texas Law Review, a representative for the Texas Aggie Bar Association, and a member of the Dean's Advisory Board and Free Speech Policy Committee.

Prior to law school, Gabriel worked in sales and project management across the oil and gas, aviation, construction, and manufacturing industries, giving him a practical, business-oriented perspective on client disputes.

At Texas A&M University, he was a member of the Corps of Cadets and served as an artillery officer in Parson's Mounted Cavalry. Outside of work, he volunteers with the Breeders Greeters Committee at the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo.
